Councils to target moorings 'eyesore'

• Boats moored along the riverside off Wilsham Road, Abingdon, with town council leader Mike Badcock, inset

COUNCILS are attempting to crack down on illegal long-term mooring along the river Thames in Abingdon in an attempt to boost tourism.

The Vale of White Horse District Council last week presented a proposal to the town council to enforce tougher rules on moorings in the town.

Boaters are allowed to moor at Abingdon free of charge for up to five days, but, as this is rarely enforced, it has led to boats mooring for months, or even years on end, without penalties.

Town council leader Mike Badcock said: "We fully support the Vale's view. "Some of these boats have been there for over a year. "It's not what the moorings were intended for. They are using all the facilities and paying nothing. It's a matter we need to follow up on."

The councils are awaiting a report being drawn up by Vale officers into the moorings, with the hope of implementing new regulations to reduce the length of legal mooring from five days to three.

Cllr Badcock said the mooring was causing problems in the town, saying: "They're preventing tourist boats from stopping in the town and also blocking fishing spots for the children, which is a Parliamentary right."

Local residents have voiced concern that some of the boats moored on the riverside off Wilsham Road were unsightly.

Work stress

OXFORD: Oxford workers suffer the most sleepless nights in the UK due to work problems, new research shows.

According to micro-mentoring app runway, 32 per cent of workers in Oxford lose sleep every week due to work stress.

Belfast (25 per cent) and London (24 per cent) are in second and third place, while Sheffield (10 per cent) was the lowest.

Hygiene breach

ABINGDON: A "large amount" of mouse droppings were found in the kitchen of a children's nursery in Marcham.

The owners of Little Angels Nursery in Morland Road, Helen Scott-Corcoran and Kay Merriman, pleaded guilty to three breaches of food and safety hygiene regulations at Oxford Magistrates' Court on August 15.

They were ordered to pay £6,700 after the droppings, dirt and gnawed-up materials were discovered in the kitchen used to prepare food and drink for babies and small children.

Glare warning

WITNEY: Police are warning drivers to take extra care in the morning sun after a collision in Witney between a car and a Biffa waste lorry in Langdale Road on Tuesday morning.

Victim's sister airs her 'disgust' over search

By Dominic Thomas

Never give up on anybody. Miracles happen every day.

Miss Huxtable attended the ceremony with her brother Christopher's daughter Nadine Morgan, 16.

Mr Huxtable was the eldest of three siblings, also leaving brother Jonathan, 33.

Miss Huxtable said: "I can't put into words how I feel, I just want him out."

"I want my brother home, back in Swansea where he belongs."

She has faced an agonising six-month wait for her brother's body to be recovered.

"I'm just upset. It's disgusting after six months of still waiting," she said. "They had food there and everything but I just couldn't eat."

Miss Huxtable also expressed her disappointment at local Swansea East MP Carolyn Harris throughout the ordeal, saying: "I don't speak to her, she doesn't speak to me at all."

Rotherham MP Sarah Champion, who represents two of the men, has campaigned for the families to be better informed about the search see below for full story.

Following the collapse, a search for the missing men was called off shortly afterwards on safety grounds until the remainder of the boilerhouse was demolished last month.

RWE confirmed there had been a ceremony held for some of the victims' families.

Families' wait labelled as 'a national scandal'

AN MP has described the failure to recover the bodies of three missing workers at the Didcot 'A' Power Station site after six months as 'a national scandal'.

The bodies of Ken Cresswell, 57, and John Shaw, 61, both of Rotherham, and Christopher Huxtable, 34, of Swansea, have remained under a pile of rubble since the boilerhouse partially collapsed on February 23.

Rotherham MP Sarah Champion, who represents two of the grieving families, said: "I am so frustrated that the men are yet to be found."

"It is a national scandal that six months on their grieving families are still unable to bury their loved ones."

"The families have had to fight to keep the recovery on track. They should never have been forced into this position - they are as much victims of this disaster as their men who died." RWE Npower, which owns the site, said its contractors were still working seven days a week, 12 hours a day, on the recovery operation to find the missing men. But some parts of the structure had "proven challenging to remove".

The remainder of the boilerhouse was brought down using explosives deployed by robots on July 17 (pictured below). Around half of the massive pile of debris has been removed.

Town mayor Steve Connel said residents understood that rescue crews had to be kept safe from harm, but six months was not acceptable.

"The families and friends of Chris, Ken and John deserve the opportunity to truly mourn the loss," he said.

Ms Champion added: "Once the men are home, there will be serious questions to be answered by all those involved and I won't rest until I get satisfactory answers. If we don't learn from this disaster, we are failing to honour the men who died."

Didcot's MP Ed Vaizey said: "I have gone on record in the past in expressing my concern that RWE took too long to formulate a plan to bring down the building so the recovery operation could start in earnest. I am satisfied the emergency and recovery services are doing all they can to recover them."

Problem blamed on the cost of housing

One of them, Clive Hornblow, said: "There's too many of them."

"It doesn't cause too many problems practically, but they just park and leave them."

"Some of them are just an eyesore."

Fellow resident John Santiago said: "Because there is no charge here, the dross just gets moored there, and it's just a bit of an eyesore."

"They're not doing any harm, but some of them are quite tatty. They should find a way of controlling it."

However, another resident Ruth Afako said: "It's nice to have boats along here and to be honest you're not talking about that many of them, so it seems a bit tough. They're not double parked or anything."

Meanwhile, boaters at the moorings sympathised with the councils' position.

One boater, who did not wish to be named, said: "It wouldn't affect us because we'd just carry on moving around."

"But I think the real problem is that moorings are expensive."

It would be a problem if they had a no-return policy.

"All the council are doing at the moment is allowing people to abuse it."

"They're between a rock and a hard place because if they employed someone to move people, then we would just move away."

The boater added: "I think their policy of free moorings does make it a Mecca for boaters. I'm certainly a big ambassador for it when anybody asks me about the Thames."

On the other hand, fellow boater Paul Statham, who regularly moors at Abingdon, said: "I don't see it as a problem because there are plenty of moorings."

"They could put a limit on it, but it's difficult to say what would be best."

Mr Statham added: "Part of the problem is caused by the cost of housing in this area, which is forcing people to find a cheaper way of living."

"But it's worth pointing out to the council that we do spend money in Abingdon, so we're not a drain on their economy."

THE row over Abingdon Town Council's decision not to fly a rainbow flag from the County Hall has prompted a further backlash in the town - this time against young supporters of the LGBTQ community.

Following the council's decision to start a working group to review flag policies, teenagers raising awareness of the issue in the town centre last week were subject to homophobic comments.

In the wake of their decision, several town councillors had also reported receiving abuse from members of the public.

In the latest incident, a group of 12 teenagers, aged 15 to 17,

By Dominic Thomas

taking part in a summer project with National Citizen Service (NCS) reported receiving homophobic comments and abuse while raising awareness of the issue and collecting money for Oxford Pride on Wednesday.

The group's leader working on behalf of NCS, Abdulla Omaigan, said: "Two of the project managers received most of the comments. They had a few homophobic remarks, some of them more crude than others."

"Someone said they wouldn't let their children be babysat by a gay person."

"Another person said they would like to 'smack' all gay people, basically showing their disapproval for what we were doing through verbal abuse."

"We also had some people who would approach us seeing that we were collecting money, but then when we told them which cause they just turned away, which I would personally still class as homophobia."

He said most of the comments were made by people of the older generation, adding that he was surprised at the insensitivity of the comments to young members of the LGBTQ community.

Oxford Pride chairman, Rob Jordan, who lives in Abingdon and has led a campaign over the flag, said: "What is shocking is that these comments were made to teenagers."

"But I think we need to focus on the positives. It was a group of teenagers that thought the issue was important, and it shows just how important a message of inclusion is needed."

"I think it has kicked the hornets' nest."

"If the council believe that this town promotes equality, then this shows that it's not as equal as they think, and we hope this can change."

Cllr Mike Badcock, who previously called the comments 'appalling', said they were a matter for the police.

• The teenagers held a stall in the town's Market Place

Fence objections

ABINGDON: Plans for new fencing around John Mason School have prompted over 30 objections from residents.

The application to put up a boundary fence around the Wootton Road school for safety reasons has been met with opposition on Vale of White Horse District Council website.

Abingdon Town Council also objected, saying: "Unacceptably harms the amenities of neighbouring properties and the wider environment in terms of its dominance and visual intrusion."

Safe stolen

ABINGDON: Police are looking to trace the perpetrators behind the theft of a safe in Abingdon on Friday morning.

The offenders took it from a house in Radley Road after breaking in through a window between midnight and 7am. The safe contained paperwork and cash.

Call police with information on 101.

Lead snatched

ABINGDON: A church hall in Ock Street, Abingdon, has been targeted by metal thieves.

The theft of lead from the hall's roof took place between 4.45am and 5.15am last Saturday morning.

A 32-year-old man was arrested on Monday in connection with the theft, but has since been released without charge by police.

Rats found

A TAKEAWAY in Didcot has been banned from using its food storage buildings after health inspectors found an infestation of rats.

The environmental health officers from South Oxfordshire District Council visited Delight 2, in Broadway, on Tuesday, August 16, following a complaint earlier that afternoon from a member of the public.

During the inspection, the officers found live and dead rats, rat faeces and gnawed packaging. On August 19, the district council applied to Oxford Magistrates' Court for a Hygiene Emergency Order against Delight 2.

The magistrates agreed that using the buildings would constitute an imminent risk to health and issued the order, confirming the ban on using the food storage area.

They also ordered Delight 2 to pay £1,280 in costs to the district council for making the application.

Trump more psychopathic than Hitler, says researcher

OXFORD University researchers have ranked US presidential hopeful Donald Trump above Adolf Hitler in a study of psychopathic traits in leaders.

Research fellow Dr Kevin Dutton worked with political correspondents and official biographers to compile scores on traits such as fearlessness, cold-heartedness and self-centred impulsivity. He found that the vast majority of political leaders were high scorers in positive aspects like social influence, fearlessness and coolness under pressure.

By Dominic Thomas

However, the analysis also reveals that leaders who possess negative traits, such as self-centredness, impulsivity and a lack of empathy, tend not to do so well in office.

Dr Dutton said: "Both great and terrible leaders score higher than the general population for psychopathic traits, but it is the mix of those traits that determines success."

"For example, someone who scores highly for being influential, fearless and cold hearted could be a decisive leader who can make dispassionate decisions. If those traits are accompanied by a high score on blaming others, they might be a genocidal demagogue."

In analysing the US presidential candidates, he found that Trump scored the highest - on par with Hitler and Idi Amin.

Oxfam accuses

OXFORD: Oxford-based charity Oxfam has accused UK ministers of "denial and disarray" over an agreement to sell arms to Saudi Arabia.

The Saudi-backed Yemeni government is fighting Shia rebels and there are fears the weapons could be used there.

The UK government has provided export licences for £3.3bn worth of arms in 12 months from March 2015.

Further closure

WITNEY: Curbridge Road in Witney is to remain closed for a further two weeks and is due to reopen on September 9.

The road was closed on June 13 due to drainage works expected to last until August 1.

But, on July 18, the road's reopening was delayed for a further three weeks.

Candidate choice

W OXFORD: Oxford West and Abingdon Liberal Democrats have reselected local teacher Layla Moran as their Parliamentary candidate.

In 2015, Layla Moran finished in second place for the Liberal Democrats, achieving 28.9 per cent of the vote.

She lost to Conservative Nicola Blackwood, who won the seat last year with 45.7 per cent of the votes.

Green councillor is an outside bet as party leader

OXFORD'S candidate for the Green Party leadership said he is 'excited' to see the result of voting as campaigning closed today.

Iffley Fields city councillor David Williams is an outside bet for the role, having put his hat into the ring for the leadership in July.

But he is up against strong competition in Green MP Caroline Lucas, who is running on a joint ticket with Jonathan Bartley, the party's spokesman on Work and Pensions.

Ahead of the close of voting today, Cllr Williams said: "I'm not sure if I'll win because everybody knows

By Dominic Thomas

Caroline Lucas and she has been a very important figurehead for the party. But then nobody knows who her running partner is either, so that may work against them.

"People in the party also like someone outside the London bubble and as I'm a Northerner, although I live in Oxford, I come across like that and it goes down pretty well."

The result of the vote is due to be announced on September 2.

Cllr Williams was born in Salford, and represented Labour on Rochdale Borough Council for 20 years before leaving the party in 2003.

He has been a city councillor in Oxford for the last 10 years, having first been elected in 2006, and is the only leadership candidate other than MP Lucas to currently hold an active elected role.

Also in the race to succeed Natalie Bennett is founder member and longest serving activist Clive Lord, film-maker David Malone and Durham parish councillor Martie Warin.

"My particular message is one of experience because I've won more elections than any other Green councillor, I've won eight in over 30 years, and that counts for something," said Cllr Williams.

He also spoke of the fortunes of his former party, who are also holding their leadership election.

"Ours is a bit more straightforward than the Labour election because everybody agrees on the policies, it's just a matter of who would be best to give a voice to the party."

Play park finally opened a year after it was built

• The play park in Juniper Way

A CHILDREN'S playground in Didcot has been opened by the South Oxfordshire's District Council's outgoing chief executive David Buckle.

The play park in Juniper Way at Great Western Park was completed a year ago but remained closed as building work on the 3,300-home estate continued.

But, in his last act as chief executive at SODC before he retires, Mr Buckle intervened to make sure families on the estate were able to enjoy the park before the summer holidays ended.

The state-of-the-art play area, including a zip wire, climbing frames, climbing logs and swings, will provide a safe haven for children to play.

The council admitted being 'frustrated' when the play area was fenced off while housing developers sorted out drainage issues.

But once these issues were overcome, Mr Buckle said he made sure the park was opened as soon as possible.

The fences came down last weekend and at the start of his last week in charge of SODC and the Vale of White Horse District Council, Mr Buckle visited the park on Monday for a welcome event hosted by SODC.

Mr Buckle said: "It's a fantastic play area, and now it's finally ready to open, I felt it was very important to step in and make sure Taylor Wimpey got those fences down as quickly as possible."

"It would have been a great shame to see another summer holiday go past without kids enjoying the play area."

Missing appeal

OXFORD: Police have released an image of a missing man who might have been seen in Oxford.

David Henderson, 53, was last seen at 1.40pm on Monday, July 25, in the Bournemouth area.

It is possible he could have travelled to Basingstoke and he also has connections to the Manchester area. He is described as being white, of medium build, with short light hair and 5ft 8in tall.

He was last seen wearing a dark T-shirt and trousers, black shoes and a pair of glasses.

Contact police on 101.

Sporting city

OXFORD: Research by TV sports channel ESPN and University of Bath found Oxford to be the fifth best city in which to be a sports fan in the South East.

London, Southampton, Brighton and Portsmouth all finished ahead of Oxford, which improved two positions on last year.

Nationally, Oxford rocketed from 40th to 21st, while Leicester was voted the best sporting city.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Oxfordshire area from their local depots and manager James Miller agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give James a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Twin's death to dementia spurs sister on for charity challenge

News Bites

Rediscovered art

OXFORD: A rare painting bought by an Oxford don for £200 and left in a wardrobe has sold for £9,500 at auction.

James Campbell, a professor of medieval history at Worcester College, bought the artwork of rooftops in Lowestoft by Euan Uglow in the 1980s and gave it away to his cousin.

Not liking the picture, she put it in the back of a wardrobe and had it valued after the professor's death earlier this year.

It was sold at an auctioneers in Yorkshire on Friday.

A DIDCOT woman who said her twin's death to Alzheimer's was like "losing my right arm" is raising money to try and support others with the devastating disease.

Ann Whiting, 67, lost her sister Mary Jones, in January following a five-year battle with dementia.

Having been so moved by how the condition impacted her sister, Mrs Whiting has decided to lead a team of people aiming to raise £180,000 as part of the Oxford Memory Walk next month.

Mrs Whiting said: "I couldn't have asked her to stay here any longer. She was in a dreadful way."

She added: "There's just no rhyme or reason to it. I want to make people aware that this can occur and it can happen to anyone."

The twins were born and grew up in East Hagbourne and then Didcot.

By George Welch

Mrs Jones was 62 when she was diagnosed five years ago.

On being given the diagnosis of advanced Alzheimer's disease, she said: "What will be, will be."

The retired HR professional for Lloyds of London insurance group had suddenly become easily confused, misplacing objects and unable to do everyday things such as operating a cashpoint.

Mrs Whiting, who now lives in Ladygrove, raised the issues with her twin's husband, Dave, who took her to the memory clinic where doctors delivered the news.

The disease caused an aggressive deterioration which left her unable to chew or swallow for the last six months of her life which made her dependent on four full-time carers.

Mrs Jones passed away on January 31 – at the same age and on the same day and date as her father.

Mrs Whiting and her husband Ken, 69, decided to take part in the Oxford Memory Walk to "turn that dreadful story into something positive".

They have set up a team that spans across generations, from age 11 to 69, and includes the Mrs Whiting's grandchildren.

It has already raised £700 for Alzheimer's Society charity.

Oxford Memory Walk organiser Kate Randall, said: "Stories like Ann's are exactly why Memory Walk is so important."

"The event is always a special day that gives people an opportunity to walk in memory of a loved one, to celebrate someone they know affected by dementia, or to create memories with family and friends."

The Oxford Memory Walk - of either 3km or 5km - falls two days before the twins' 68th birthday, on Sunday, September 18, at Oxford University Parks.

Sex offences in schools double within four years

SEXUAL offences in schools across the Thames Valley have doubled in just four years, according to statistics from a Freedom of Information request.

The number of reported sex offences on school premises in Oxfordshire, Berkshire and Buckinghamshire rose from 65 in 2011 to 137 in 2014 to 137 in 2015 – the figures from Thames Valley Police show.

They total 137 over the four years and include abuse of trust, voyeurism, causing a child to watch a sex act, and rape.

The statistics have sparked children's charity Plan International UK to call for better sex education in schools covering sexting, consent, healthy relationships and the law.

The charity's head of girls' rights Kerry Smith said: "This shows we're failing young people when it comes to learning about healthy relationships and consent."

"Quality sex and relationships education helps young people to develop healthy attitudes towards sex and relationships while helping to tackle inappropriate and aggressive sexual behaviour."

Nationally, reports of sexual offences in schools have also more than doubled in four years to 1,955 in 2014 to 2015.

Less than one in 10 suspected cases resulted in criminal charges or summons.

The charity has submitted the evidence to an ongoing Women and Equalities Parliamentary Select Committee inquiry investigating sexual violence in schools.

Carnival pictures

OXFORD: An exhibition depicting 15 years' worth of Cowley Road Carnival photography has opened.

The exhibition started on Friday and will run until September 24 at the Old Fire Station, in Gloucester Green.

The photographs have been taken by three photographers: Jim Robinson, Chris Stonehouse and Irmgard Hüppe.

Play shortlisted

OXON: An Oxfordshire play tackling the issue of self-harm by teenagers has been shortlisted for an award.

'Under my Skin', commissioned by Oxfordshire County Council and produced by Pegasus Theatre, has been nominated in the Public Mental Health and Wellbeing category of the Royal Society of Public Health awards.

The play, which was performed at 27 schools in Oxfordshire, formed part of an initiative aiming to raise awareness.

999 call handler sacked for hanging up on rape victim

A POLICE call handler has been sacked after she ended a 999 call from a vulnerable woman in Oxford who was raped shortly afterwards.

Gail Daniels-Ekarte spent five-and-a-half minutes talking to the 999 caller from Oxford who said she was in danger, but did not send any officers to help her.

Ms Daniels-Ekarte was dismissed by Thames Valley Police following a gross misconduct hearing.

The control room worker took a 999 call from the desperate victim at the force's

By George Welch

Milton Keynes control room in December 2013.

Later that day, a further call came in to the same control room reporting that the woman had been raped in Oxfordshire.

Rapist Zilvinas Ruzgas, 40, was later jailed for the attack, and now Ms Daniels-Ekarte has been found guilty of gross misconduct.

Ruzgas, of Odessa Road, London, was given seven years' imprisonment for rape and put on the sexual offenders' register for his crime.

The misconduct hearing was a result of the force referring the case to the Independent Police Complaints Commission which recommended there was a case to answer for gross misconduct.

At the hearing, it was found that Ms Daniels-Ekarte failed to deal with the call appropriately and did not follow force policies and guidelines.

Ms Daniels-Ekarte was subsequently dismissed without notice on August 10 following the hearing.

Assistant Chief Constable Dave Hardcastle, head of operations for Thames Valley Police, said: "We have dismissed a member of staff as they failed to respond appropriately to what was a clear call for help from a member of the public.

"At Thames Valley Police, we expect the highest of standards from our staff and officers. Sadly, the individual's actions in this case fell very far below the standard of what we expect."

Ms Daniels-Ekarte has a right to appeal the decision to dismiss her.

Plans unveiled for a £2m centre revamp

INITIAL plans to refurbish a community centre have been unveiled by Oxford City Council.

The council released a feasibility study on Wednesday last week into the proposals for a £2 million redevelopment of East Oxford Community Centre site on the corner of Cowley Road and Princes Street.

Council officers met stakeholders on August 15 to present the findings from the study, which produced a range of options for the redevelopment.

The plans range from doing nothing and maintaining the centre as it is to using some of the space to secure more funds.

If the East Oxford Games Hall and Film Oxford sites were to be sold, £2 million could be generated in funding.

The proposed scheme would provide state-of-the-art facilities and a flexible set of spaces for community uses.

Councillor Christine Simm, board member for communities and culture, said: "We want to ensure that our community buildings and spaces are of modern standards, well used, and inclusive."

But former Green councillor Elise Benjamin said: "During the recent city elections, Labour candidates denied that the council was planning these sell-offs."

Oxfordshire A-level results edge ahead of last year in results joy

• Abingdon pupils William Adams (AAA), Nathan Byrne (AAA), Benjamin Schneider (A*A*AB) Leon Wu (A*A*AA) and Douglas Wilson (A*AB)

FIVE Abingdon School pupils netted a total of 15 A* and As between them when A-level results were released last week.

Leon Wu, pictured right of centre, achieved an impressive A*A*AA to secure his place at Imperial College, London, to study Maths, while Benjamin Schneider, centre, will be studying the same subject at Oxford University after receiving A*A*AB.

Results posted by schools and academies in Oxfordshire show around 95 per cent of students have gained two or more A-Levels at the A*-E pass rate.

This is slightly higher than Oxfordshire's 2015 results of 94.5 per cent.

By Dominic Thomas

Oxfordshire County Council's cabinet member for education Melinda Tilley said: "As always there are some outstanding individual success stories which deserve to be highlighted, but results day is a huge milestone for thousands of young people who have put in years of hard work."

Wallingford School, which has had the county's highest state school grades for the last three years, improved on their results with a 99 per cent pass rate in all exams and 26 per cent achieving A* or A.

Headteacher Wyll Willis said: "The thing about A-levels is that it's all about the students. They are the one that have to sit down and get it done on their own.

"The families and teachers deserve some credit as well but no one succeeds at A-level unless they have worked really hard.

"It's a lovely feeling to be here and seeing people's faces as they open their envelopes is that is what it's all about."

There was more joy at Abingdon's John Mason School, where AS-level results rose against national predictions due to syllabus changes.

Pupil Megan Underwood, who got AAAA at AS-level in art, graphic design, media and English lit, said: "I'm really happy. All of my friends did great as well, all the hard work has paid off."

The school's A-level results also saw an improvement on last year, with a 100 per cent pass rate and an above average rate of passes at A*-B.

Mrs Brinkley said: "I'm very pleased that our A-level results have again held firm for another year and we've also seen a rise in students going to university.

"We're absolutely delighted for our students.

"They all work very hard and it's really great to see so many smiling faces."

Elite diver Charlie all set to make a splash in the States

A WALLINGFORD Team GB diving hopeful has achieved his American dream with top A-level grades good enough to send him to the States.

Wallingford School student Charlie Minns, 18, is set to study Maths at Princeton University in September after getting A*A*A results in maths, further maths and physics.

Opening the envelope, he said: "This is what I was hoping for. I was a little bit nervous but mostly just excited to see how I'd done.

"I'm really relieved that it's all gone well."

However it hadn't all been plain sailing for the teenager, who balanced his studies with training five times a week for the national elite diving squad in Reading.

He has been a diver since the age of eight, and a member of the squad for six years.

He said: "Going into the first year of my AS-levels was definitely an increase in workload and it was a bit of a struggle to balance but then I just started to get into a bit of a rhythm.

"The sports facilities at Princeton was one of the main reasons for choosing it, my plan is to compete for Great Britain.

"There was a lot of training but I never felt like I didn't have enough time to get things done, and if I did need more time to do homework then the school recognised that."

• Charlie with his A*A*A results

'Never too late to go back to study'

AT the age of 18, as many of Liam Walker's friends were going to university, he went back to school to get his GCSEs.

Three years on, the 21-year-old City of Oxford College student is celebrating getting into university.

Mr Walker, from Kidlington, will be studying Business enterprise, entrepreneurship and management at London Southbank University.

He opened his A-level results envelope last week to B, C and D grades in business studies, English language and literature and psychology.

He said: "I went onto UCAS and it said I was confirmed so I knew I had done well - I was really happy. I was smiling when I was coming in - I've accomplished what I came here to do. I'm going to study what I want to now. It's good to focus just on one thing."

After a year working in retail, the Banbury Road resident overcame the 'intimidating' prospect of returning to school following advice from his mum.

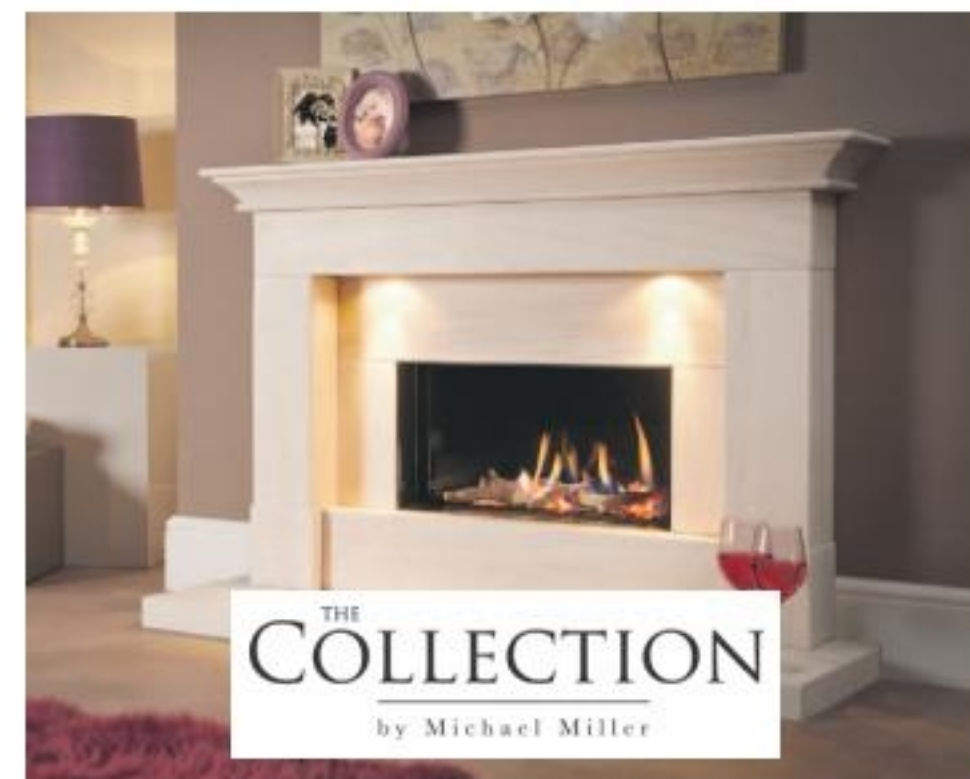

He said: "I saw a lot of people in my year who were already at university and I felt like I was behind.

"But then I just thought 'that's ridiculous' - it's never too late to go back and study."

Fear over humming noise from planned electricity station

RESIDENTS have raised concerns over plans to build an electricity sub-station behind homes in Bicester.

Scottish and Southern Energy Power Distribution have submitted proposals to build a new electricity sub-station and access off the A4421 Skimmingdish Lane.

The nearest homes are in Duxford Close and Fulmar Court - 30 metres away from the proposed site.

The sub-station will contain four transformers and a switch room and will be surrounded by a steel-paling fence.

The application documents said: "The four transformers will be the only significant noise sources in the site: they will make humming sounds, with the principal tone at

By Samantha McGregor

100Hz (this is normal for transformers, there is no tone at 50Hz)."

It said acoustic screens or enclosures can be installed to reduce noise.

But residents say it is the wrong location and fear the constant humming will have an impact on their lives.

They also raised concerns about the loss of green space, "electromagnet radiation", and the knock-on effect on house prices.

An Explosive Ordnance Risk Assessment report submitted as part of the application said there was a "high risk" of unexploded bombs due to its proximity to the former RAF Bicester flying field.

Resident David Hutchinson, of Duxford Close, said residents have been told noise from the transformers will be the loudest from midnight to 4am.

Mr Hutchinson's letter said: "During the winter months we will hear the noise more due to the fact there will be no leaves on the trees to act as a buffer.

"Through the summer months we will not be able to have our windows open at night, as you have stated the noise will be more apparent between midnight and 4am."

He said because the sub-station was being built to serve a new industrial estate on the other side of Skimmingdish Lane it should be built there.

Another resident, Amanda Kitching, also of Duxford Close, also "strongly" objected.

She said the development was too close to homes and could have a negative impact the value of properties.

While green campaigner Pamela Roberts, raised concerns about noise pollution and the impact on the landscape.

She said the site was intended to be a "linear park" along Skimmingdish Lane to benefit local residents and wildlife.

The application is due to be decided by Cherwell District Council.

Wanted man

BANBURY:

Police are appealing for help to trace David French, 32, who is wanted on recall to prison.

French is described as white, 5ft 10ins, of broad build with cropped brown hair and a birthmark on the left side of his neck.

He was last seen on July 15, in Edmonds Road, Banbury.

Detective Sergeant Lee Newman, of Banbury Police Station, said: "We are very keen to trace David. He has failed to attend his appointments following his release from prison and is known to frequent the Banbury area."

Anyone with information should call 101 quoting URN 1289 29/7.

Elms Road plans

THAME: Plans for an extra care housing development of 87 apartments, houses and a communal residents' centre have been submitted.

The development also includes basement parking, a new public open space, a new access road from Elms Road and a new pedestrian/cycle link onto Upper High Street.

Thame's town councillors are due to consider the application at a meeting on Tuesday, September 20.

Charity bingo

THAME: Thame Snooker Club is hosting a charity bingo night in aid of the mayor's chosen charities - The Red Kite Children's Centre and Thame Youth Projects.

It takes place from Friday, September 9, starting at 7pm, eyes down 7.30pm.

Gene hope for Oxfordshire

• Evie with her family

AN Oxfordshire family is hoping a simple blood sample will help to unlock the mysteries of their two-year-old daughter's rare immune deficiency condition.

Mum and dad Corinne and Kevin Kirk hope a genetics project based in Oxford will tell them more about Evie's condition, which leaves her susceptible to infections and means she has to take antibiotics and have a regular infusion of antibodies.

The family are among more than 1,000 people who have taken part in the first full year of a groundbreaking NHS 100,000 Genomes Project, a national project funded by the Department of Health.

Patients with rare diseases and cancers provide health data and blood and tissue samples which are then decoded to look for genetic mutations which help researchers to develop tests and treatments.

Mrs Kirk, of Chinnor, near Thame, said: "We got involved in the project to try and find out which immunodeficiency Evie has and how this happened to our daughter."

"If we can pinpoint which gene is affected the doctors will be able to better predict what this will mean for Evie's future, from the risks involved in having her own children to whether this will mean she is more at risk from developing more serious diseases or cancers."

Evie kept getting infections and initially doctors were unable to say why she kept getting ill.

Her family hope by taking part in the research "medical science" will in the future help her to better manage her condition or eradicate it all together.

Study backs road link for 'brain belt'

By George Welch

FAILING to build a link road between the 'brain belt' of Oxford and Cambridge could choke the UK's economic growth, a Government report has warned.

The Department for Transport investigation published the Oxford to Cambridge Expressway Strategic Study on Thursday last week looking at better linking the two cities via Milton Keynes and Bedford.

The £500,000 study says journey times could be cut by up to 30 minutes and adds that a failure to act could "constrain economic growth".

Transport Minister John Hayes said: "I want people up and down Britain to benefit from quicker, more reliable journeys."

"Our cities and towns are the lifeblood of our economy and they, as well as our rural communities, need strong connections to thrive."

The expressway linking Oxford and Cambridge could become part of the government's next phase of road improvements, which will get underway from 2020.

However, the Campaign for Better Transport group is arguing that building a major road is not necessarily the answer.

Campaigner Bridget Fox said: "Creating new homes and new jobs in this area need not require massive new road construction in the countryside, with motorway-style routes excluding cyclists and bus users."

"Oxford and Cambridge have pioneered transport policies based on providing alternatives to car dependency. To build new road connections drawing more traffic into the area risks undermining their achievements."

"This is a disappointing return to the 'predict and provide' policies of the past."

Extra plans on what route the expressway could take will now be developed and completed over the next six months.

An estimate of how much the new route could cost has not been announced.

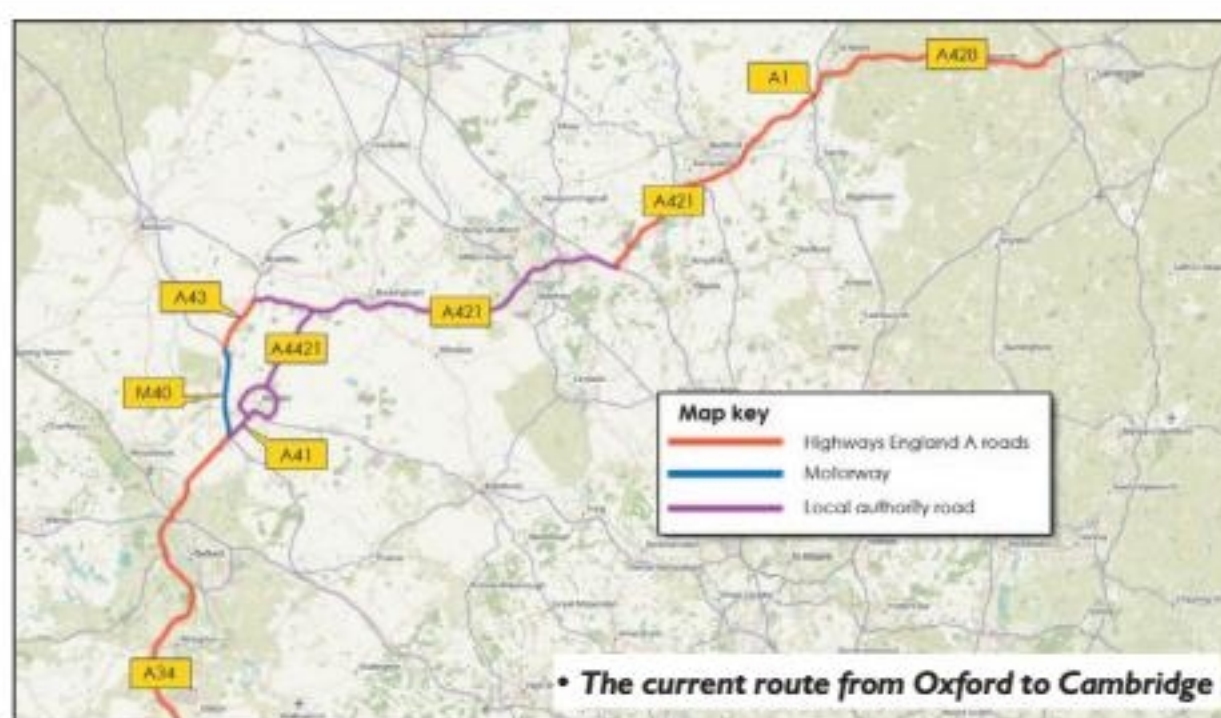

Drug dealer handed three-year jail term

A 'PROLIFIC drug dealer' from London has been sentenced to three years in prison after being caught in Didcot.

Driss Dekhissi, 21, of Linacre Road, London, was sentenced on Friday at Oxford Crown Court. He was caught with four wraps containing heroin in his car on July 14 and was charged with one count of possession with intent to supply heroin, as well as two further counts of being concerned in the supply of class-A drugs on March 31.

On July 19, Dekhissi used an evidential toilet and passed a cellophane package as well as other wraps. Analysis showed they contained heroin and cocaine.

Dekhissi pleaded guilty to possession with intent to supply heroin at Oxford Magistrates' Court on July 22.

Litter kills horse

OXFORD: A horse has died after receiving a deep and untreatable cut to its leg.

The animal sustained the injury from a broken bottle on Port Meadow, Oxford, on August 15.

Oxford City Council has put up posters around the site urging people to dispose of their litter responsibly.

Junction work

OXFORD: Part of a new £6.7 million road junction in Oxford is to be altered less than 12 months after completion to prevent more damage by vehicles.

A kerb at Frideswide Square had to be repaired in May as bus companies said it was impossible for them to navigate the junction without mounting the pavement.

The kerb outside the Royal Oxford Hotel will be realigned and strengthened during two weeks of work which started on Monday this week.

Jobless down

OXON: Oxfordshire's level of unemployment is down to its lowest level in eight years.

Latest figures from the Office of National Statistics show just 11,800 people - or 3.3 per cent of the working population - were unemployed between April 2014 and March 2015.

Organist marks marathon with return trip to palace

AN amateur organist returned to Blenheim Palace in Woodstock last week to mark the completion of a 20-year journey to play every cathedral organ in the country.

John Richards, 75, of Cardiff, who has played all of Britain's 94 cathedral organs, fell out of love with the playing the organ when his first wife, a music teacher, died suddenly in 1992.

But after John married his second wife, Lyn, three years later, it was she who led him to rediscover his passion for the instrument by arranging for him to play at Blenheim Palace as a surprise while on holiday.

By Dominic Thomas

Lyn said: "John was really ill with grief at that time, so I thought I would surprise him one day. I wrote to the Duke of Marlborough and got John permission to play at the palace."

John described it as 'a huge turning point' in his life.

Lyn continued: "After that, I wanted to see if he would be allowed to play at cathedrals, and then I arranged one every time we went away, un-knownst to him. The number kept creeping up and suddenly we realised that there weren't all that many that he hadn't played, so that spurred him on."

Lyn arranged for John to play his first cathedral organ at Worcester in 1997 and he has since completed the circuit of every cathedral in the country, which has taken him to Westminster Abbey and St Paul's Cathedral, over two decades.

"It's been a tremendous time, I've met so many people and have so many stories along the way," said John, who started playing the organ in church as a 10-year-old boy.

The retired civil servant played his last cathedral in Inverness on June 28, and subsequently returned to Blenheim Palace last Thursday, where it all began.

"It was a wonderful completion of a circle. I had come back again but under different circumstances to when I arrived, when I didn't realise why I was there," he said.

He paid tribute to his wife, Lyn, who has remained his inspiration throughout his journey, saying: "Lyn has been by my side all of the way. The way she saw my need back then and decided to meet it is just unbelievable."

MP pleased at progress over B4009 lorry signs

THE introduction of better signs on the M40 to stop HGV drivers cutting through Watlington could be a step closer.

Henley MP John Howell has been lobbying for the new signs and, now, Highways England has written to him, saying it has come up with proposals to install better information boards at exits from the M40 at junction 6 for Lewknor.

Dr Howell wants the improved signs to deter HGVs using the B4009 from the M40 through Watlington after delays in getting weight-limit signage put up around Junction 6 of the M40.

A recent letter from Highways England said UK Highways M40 Ltd, which is responsible for the safe operation of the motorway between junctions 1 and 15, in liaison with Oxfordshire County Council, had identified proposals to improve the signage at Lewknor to highlight the weight limit restriction for vehicles using the B4009.

Dr Howell said: "A number of us have been badgering Highways England to take action on this for some time and progress on this has been disappointingly slow."

"However, this is a positive step in the right direction and I am pleased that we have at last got to this stage."

He added: "We are told that road-safety audits, and other related survey and design work will be undertaken in the coming months after which detailed proposals and the programme of installation will be set out. Slow progress, but progress nonetheless, and in writing now."

Warning after field blaze

FIREFIGHTERS have urged people to be careful discarding cigarettes and bottles after a field set alight in north Oxfordshire.

Last Wednesday crews were faced with a rapidly spreading fire in an overgrown field off Warwick Road, Banbury.

Firefighters used beater and hose reels to try and bring it under control while a second fire engine placed itself ahead of the blaze to stop it spreading into nearby farmers' fields.

Station manager Mark Ames said: "They worked extremely hard to contain the blaze to just the one field, the crews were exhausted, they work very hard on maintaining their fitness throughout the year in anticipation of this and other types of exhausting activities."

"The current spell of dry weather means fire risks in the countryside are currently and likely to remain very high."

He warned people to take care.

He added: "The most common causes of grass fires are discarded cigarettes, which if thrown from a car window can quickly catch dry grass alight, another major cause is where a discarded glass bottle intensifies the sun's rays acting like a magnifying glass."

Masked raider's bid to rob village Co-op foiled

By Samantha McGregor

"AUDACIOUS" ram raiders drove into the front of a village shop in West Oxfordshire and pulled a cash machine out of the wall.

Police yesterday released CCTV images and are appealing for witnesses after the raid at Co-op, in Milton-under-Wychwood, on Saturday, just after midnight at 12.45am.

The raiders, wearing masks, used a stolen dark coloured Isuzu Trooper to drive into the front of the Co-op store on Shipton Road, dragged the ATM machine out of the wall and drove off with it dragging behind the car.

The car drove off in the direction of the A424 Stow road and damaged several vehicles as it left the village.

But the cash machine became disconnected from the Isuzu Trooper vehicle and was found near the Co-op - no cash had been removed.

Police said three other vehicles were involved in the robbery.

These were a dark coloured BMW with a concealed number plate, a smaller white car, possibly a Vauxhall Corsa or Fiat

• A CCTV image of the white Mercedes and, inset, the Co-operative shop targeted by "audacious" ram raiders

500, and a white Mercedes.

Officers later found the Isuzu Trooper abandoned about a mile away from the store and it had been set on fire.

Investigating officer, Police Constable Adam Taylor, said: "We are releasing CCTV images of the scene and one of the vehicles involved, a white A class Mercedes AMG, with a panoramic roof and blacked out wheel rims."

"If you recognise any of the people in the images or the vehicle, or have any other information about the offences please contact police by calling 101 and quoting reference number 50 (20/8)."

Detective Sergeant Wendy Greenslade, from local CID at Banbury Police Station, said officers were at the scene of the raid the same day to reassure residents.

She said: "This was an audacious ram raid in a quiet village and I would like to reassure the local community that this is a rare occurrence."

A spokesperson for The Midcounties Co-operative said: "We can confirm there was an incident at our Milton-Under-Wychwood store over the weekend."

"The police are currently investigating and we are assisting them with their enquiries."

The firm declined to say how much damage was caused.

News Bites

Fly tip appeal

BICESTER: A council is appealing for information after planks, pallets and "distinctive" pink plasterboard were among items dumped in Stratton Audley Road, near Bainton.

Cherwell District Council officers believe the waste was dumped between 11pm and midnight on the night of Wednesday, August 17.

Cllr Debbie Pickford, Cherwell's lead member for clean and green, said: "I am shocked and disappointed to see that there are builders operating in the district who still do not have a legitimate waste disposal plan in place, as they are required by law to do."

Anyone with information should call 01295 227007.

Towersey Fringe

THAME: Tickets for Towersey Fringe festival, which takes place from August 26 to 29 are on sale.

Advance tickets for the event at the Festival Green and in the Headless Horseman Bar, cost £9 for adults and £4 for concessions, and can be bought at the Information Centre at Thame Town Hall.

The main Festival, with music from Kate Rusby, Billy Bragg, and Edward II alongside a host of acts, is held at Thame showground, in Kingsey Road at the same time.

MONEY MATTERS

Do I need to complete a tax return?

With the new personal savings allowance and £5,000 dividend allowance some taxpayers may now be wondering if they are still required to file a self-assessment tax return.

The UK tax year runs from 6 April to the following 5 April.

There are a number of instances where it is necessary to file a tax return.

- if you have income from self-employment either as a sole trader or from a partnership;
- if you have rental or savings and investment income of £2,500 or more and it has not been taxed at source;
- if you have £10,000 or more in savings and investment income; (if your dividend income is between £5,000 and £10,000 you should ring the HMRC helpline. If it is £5,000 or less there is no need to do anything unless there is another reason you need a tax return);

- if you have disposed of assets during the year for example shares or property, which may result in a capital gain or indeed a loss that can be carried forward to set against gains in the future;
- if you are a company director, the exception being it is within a non-profit organisation such as a charity and no pay or benefits are paid to you;
- if either you or your partner earn more than £50,000 and either of you are in receipt of Child Benefit;
- if you have foreign income

that is liable for UK tax;

- if you live abroad but have UK income;
 - if you have dividend income and are a higher rate taxpayer; (if this is the only reason you need a tax return then you can contact the HMRC helpline instead);
 - if your income is over £100,000;
 - if you are a trustee of a registered pension scheme or trust;
 - if HMRC sent you a P800 in the previous year showing an underpayment of tax and this has not been collected through your PAYE code or by a payment direct to HMRC;
- There are other people who may need to complete a tax return such as Lloyd's underwriters or ministers of religion. You should not ordinarily need to make a return if your only income is from salary or pension. You can always check by calling the HMRC helpline.

If HMRC send you a notice requesting a tax return, then failure to submit one will result in a penalty charge even though you may not have any tax to pay.

You may need to file a tax return to claim tax relief such as on gift-aided charity donations or private pension contributions if you are a higher rate taxpayer or have work expenses over £2,500 – if less than £2,500 you can simply call the helpline.

Self-Assessment Deadlines

If you need to submit a tax return and have not done so in the past, then you should register for self-assessment by 31 October after the end of the tax year. Paper tax returns must be filed by 31 October. Online tax returns must be filed by 31 January and any resulting tax liability must be paid by 31 January. There is a further payment deadline of 31 July if payments on account are due. If your tax liability is less than £3,000 and you have sufficient PAYE income, you can pay your tax through your PAYE code but the online return must be submitted by 30 December. HMRC usually issue statements of account in December but it is important to note that if your return has not been submitted prior to the statement date then it will not be up to date. Non receipt of a statement is not accepted as an excuse for not paying your tax on time and interest will be charged.

Penalties

If your tax return is up to 3 months late the penalty is £100. If your return has not been submitted by 1 May i.e. it is more than 3 months late then in addition to the £100, further penalties of £10 per day will be charged up to a maximum of £900. A further £300 is added after 6 months and a further £300 after 12 months. Penalties for late submission can easily add up to quite a large sum.

If you pay your tax late interest accrues on a daily basis.

There is an appeal process if you have a reasonable excuse for being late. HMRC consider a reasonable excuse to be something unexpected such as a sudden hospital stay or life threatening illness, a fire or flood that prevented completion of the return, service issues with HMRC online services, computer crash or the death of a close relative.

If you require further information you should consult an advisor or contact HMRC.

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

LOUISE CLAIRE MILLINERY

An Interview with Louise ...

You have a growing business and shop that resembles an art installation. How did it begin? What brought you to millinery?

The Wallingford business was established twenty-three years ago, but I have owned it for the last thirteen. I took it over from a lady who was retiring, and grew it from two-hundred hats to where it stands now at over twelve-hundred. The bespoke side of the business is also ever-increasing, which is exciting and something that I'm keen to continue investing in.

I've always been passionate about fashion, and turned that interest into a vocation decades ago when I graduated from the London College of Fashion as a designer. I predominantly worked on bespoke, one-off pieces, such as wedding dresses and evening gowns, but am also experienced at crafting suits and all types of daywear. Hats are naturally the focal point of an outfit, particularly if the occasion is special, and I found myself consistently trying to source hats that would work for the looks I was creating. This process got me interested in millinery in its own right; I was drawn to the niche and specific nature of hat-making, and the potential within it to pull together and complete a look that would otherwise seem unfinished.

Since deciding to narrow my focus, I've gained nine separate millinery qualifications covering a range of different materials and skills, from silk and sinamay, to complex feather-work. Millinery is precise and complex, but that's what I love about it. Especially when working on bespoke pieces, there's such a variety of ways to make a hat personal and unique, and I get a great sense of satisfaction from completing each new commission. Being able to see it through from idea to finished product is special, particularly when you then see it draw an outfit together.

What makes Louise Claire Millinery distinct?

For me, it's our bespoke service that really sets us apart. A key part of our business is, of course, the shop itself, and I work with various millinery companies to ensure that we have a broad range of hats on the floor. Each milliner that I buy from works with a different fashion house, and this allows me to stock a broad colour palette and range of styles to suit all kinds of ages and occasions. This won't change, but I am increasingly working to grow the bespoke side of things. Each bespoke piece is created right here in the Wallingford shop. My workroom is just off to the back, of the shop which keeps everything under one roof.

So what exactly does a bespoke experience entail? Are there different ways of producing hats 'by hand'?

Yes, there definitely are different ways, or levels, I suppose, of how you can make a hat by hand. You can buy different parts almost ready-made if you want to, and some retailers will simply glue a feather detail onto a hat base and call it hand-made. For me, though, it's a much longer and more detailed process, and to ensure a truly well-made hat, you need to begin with a roll of fabric and a needle and thread.

The bespoke service is as personal as we can make it, and always begins with a consultation with the customer. We'll look at the dress being worn, the occasion it is needed for, and go from there. We can even incorporate material from the dress if it is being made specially for the customer, and we have longstanding relationships with local dressmakers who will send their customers over to us with a sample of material, so we can make sure their hat is the perfect accessory.

Once the fabric is chosen, the shape needs to be decided on, and then a specific piece of wood called a hat-block is required to give that hat its form. Often we get these blocks made specifically for a customer, which means that even the dimensions of the hat, and the way it sits is unique to them. The production of the block is a craft in its own right and can take three to four weeks for the maker to produce it.

The base material is then stretched over the hat block, and through a mixture of warm water, steam, and fabric stiffener, the hat is given its shape. We work with many materials from silk, to parasol straw to sinamay. Details such as feathers, bows, and more detailed fabric work are then added, and at every stage it is all sewn by hand. I don't use a sewing machine. In my experience, this is by far the best way to ensure a quality product, that will last and look consistently good as time passes.

I tend to allow around three months for the whole process of creating a bespoke piece, and this includes all labour and repeat consultations with the customer—which can sometimes be out of hours. My priority is always their needs, and making something that brings the picture they have in their head to life. It can often be the case that the hat is the only element of an outfit to be custom made, and I appreciate that it's a really special thing for someone to have such a big part to play in the design process. With this in mind, we never repeat bespoke pieces for the shop floor, so there's no danger of attending an event to find someone in a matching hat. And of course all customer contact remains confidential.

Looking back over your career, what have been the highlights?

36 St Mary's Street, Wallingford, OX10 0EU.

Open: Mon-Sat 10am-5pm

That's such a hard question! I've been lucky enough to have some really exciting experiences as the business has grown. I've loved being on Radio Berkshire and Radio Oxford. I was invited on as a guest to talk about hats and the millinery process pre-Ascot, and had so much fun. Equally as good was when I was asked to appear on BBC 1's Put Your Money Where Your Mouth Is.

I have to say, though, that the moments I value the most are when I see my customers happy, wearing their hats—especially when it's been a bespoke piece. You build up such a relationship as it's being made, and to know that they are satisfied and that you've helped make part of their event extra special means a lot to me. I love going to Ascot, catching up with clients, and seeing my hats on display as they're meant to be worn. I also have a personal memory book that I regularly update, with pictures and letters from customers ranging from a photo with the Queen to a handwritten note dropped through the door. That's something I love looking at, because it's a whole collection of highlights, and reminds me how lucky I am to be doing something I'm so passionate about.

What is your vision for the future? Are you thinking about taking the business in any new directions?

Well...the big news is that I am planning to launch my collection! Many of my regular customer are very enthusiastic about the idea, each one will be a unique, one of a kind design of the utmost quality. I'm inspired by a modern, elegant aesthetic and want the designs to exemplify that in an original way. There is also the possibility of us working with a London milliner and incorporating their collection into our stock, and this along with my own line will be an exciting development in the direction of our business. So it's a case of watch this space...I'm expecting 2017 to be a productive year!

In the meantime the Wallingford site will continue to welcome all of our loyal Henley customers, and offer our bespoke experience and full range of hats at accessible prices, to purchase and hire. Come and say hello!

Come along and take a look. Styles to suit everyone.

It boasts four double bedrooms, an en-suite shower room to the master room in addition to a family bathroom with a separate shower and bath, garage, parking, and enclosed garden.

To arrange to view this family home, call Breckon & Breckon on 01235 550550.

Contemporary feel to four-bedroom house in Marcham

This attractive four bedroom, three bathroom family home at Abbots Grange, Marcham, has bright and spacious accommodation throughout.

It features an impressive and contemporary kitchen/breakfast room with triple glazed doors to the substantial rear garden.

In addition, there is a separate utility, a dining room and two further reception rooms.

The master and guest rooms benefit from en-suite shower rooms, there are two further double bedrooms and a stylish family bathroom.

The house has a guide price of £600,000. For further details or to arrange a viewing, contact Breckon & Breckon on 01235 550550.

Is Oxford over crowded, or can more be done to find room for new homes?

Bill Cooper, author of The Oxford Property Blog:

Oxford is in the clutches of a population crisis that has now started to affect the quality of life of those living in Oxford.

There are simply not enough homes in Oxford to house the growing numbers of people who want to live in the city.

The burden on public services is approaching breaking point with many parents unable to send their child to their first choice primary or secondary school and the chances of getting a decent dentist or GP next to nil.

That's what the papers would say anyway! But I've taken a look at real numbers, and in particular I've looked at the housing issue in Oxford.

To start with, the UK has roughly 1,065 people per square mile – the second highest in Europe. The total area of Oxford itself is 12.621 square miles and there are 159,900 Oxford residents, meaning 12,669 people live in each square mile of Oxford, or 11,600 more than the national average... so it's no wonder we appear to be bursting at the seams.

But we all know that newspapers, politicians and property market bloggers quote big numbers to sell more newspapers, get elected or get people reading their blog (I recognise the irony!).

A square mile is enormous and much bigger than it sounds, so the numbers look correspondingly large.

Most people reading this will know what an 'acre' is, but those younger readers who don't, it is an imperial unit of measurement for land and is approximately 63 square metres.

In Oxford, fractionally more than 18 people live in every acre of Oxford, not as headline grabbing, but a lot more relative to everyday life, and if I am being honest, a figure that doesn't seem that bad.

However, the issue at hand is, we need more homes to be built. In 2007, Tony Blair set a target that 240,000 homes a year needed to be built to keep up with the population growth, whilst the Tories new target since 2010 was a more modest 200,000 a year.

However, since 2010, as a country, we have only been building between 140,000 and 150,000 homes a year. So where are we going to build them? Because we have no space! Or do we?

Well, let me tell you this fascinating piece of information - I found out recently in an official Government report that in England the 20million English homes cover only 1.1 per cent of its land mass.

That is not a typo, only one point one per cent of land in England is covered by residential property, which leaves 87.5 per cent as open countryside.

As a country, we have plenty of space to build more homes for the younger generation and the five million more homes needed in the next 20 years would use only around 0.25 per cent of the country's land.

Now I am not advocating building massive housing estates and 20-storey concrete and glass apartment blocks next to local beauty spots such as Blenheim Palace or Christ Church Meadow, but with some clever planning and joined up thinking, we really do need to think outside the box when it comes to how we are going to build and house our children and our children's children over the coming 50 years in Oxford.

This should be of concern to owner occupiers and landlords alike, Oxford needs up to 32,000 more homes to buy and to rent to keep up with population growth.

Today, average house prices are 16.2 times average earnings, amongst the highest once London is excluded and growing.

If anyone has their own ideas or opinions, I would love to hear from you. In the meantime, if you would like to read other articles about the Oxford property market, please visit the Oxford Property Market Blog: oxfordpropertyblog.co.uk.

What's to come at Towersey Festival

AFTER the excitement of the 2015 Towersey Festival, 2016 is set to be bigger and better than ever.

From Friday, August 26 to Monday, August 29, some of the country's biggest folk, soft rock, instrumental and country artists will arrive at Thame Showground to show why Towersey is regarded as one of the UK's most relaxing festivals.

Among the most anticipated acts is the Ukulele Orchestra of Great Britain on Saturday, August 27, to kick-start your Bank Holiday Weekend.

By James Richings

"Audiences like to have a good time at our shows and I'm sure the crowd at Towersey will be terrific," ukulele player Will Grove-White, pictured second from left, told the Guardian.

"You can expect a funny, virtuosic, foot-stomping obituary of rock 'n' roll and melodious light entertainment.

"It will feature only the 'bonsai guitar' and a menagerie of voices in a collasion of post-punk performance and toe-tapping oldies."

The Ukulele Orchestra of Great Britain has been entertaining audiences across the world since 1985, which has seen its members clocking up a total of 16 million minutes in playing time.

And as well as Grove-White, the orchestra consists of Dave Suich, Peter Brooke Turner, Hester Goodman, George Hinchliffe, Richie Williams, Kitty Lux and Jonty Banke.

Since its formation 31 years ago, The Ukulele Orchestra of Great Britain has become regarded as one of the world's leading ukulele groups.

Performances at the Royal Albert Hall, the Sydney Opera House, Glastonbury, the BBC Proms and on TV show 'Later... with Jools Holland' have powered the group into music folklore with their unique playing style, witty humour and brilliant interpretations of well-known tracks.

"I don't think any of us expected that it would have such a long life or that there would be a ukulele revival across the globe," he said.

"When we started, if anyone had told me we were going to be playing at Carnegie Hall, the Royal Albert Hall and Sydney Opera House I'd have eaten my hat.

"Good job no-one did as I don't much like the taste of hats."

ENTERTAINMENT & LISTINGS

Introducing headliner: Billy Bragg

LIGHTING up the main stage at Towersey Festival tomorrow night will be veteran musician Billy Bragg.

Fresh from a media whirlwind of debates about whether the singer-songwriter and political left-wing activist is a Corbynista or not, Bragg will no doubt be looking forward to all the exciting and easygoing enjoyment of Thame's fiesta.

The 57-year-old is getting set to perform a mix of tunes from yesterday to his newest song 'Shine a Light', created during a mammoth railway adventure.

By James Richings

Bragg's set will showcase his latest tune, which forms part of his 16th studio album.

His work with fellow musician Joe Henry, was recorded via a very unorthodox method. In March the pair embarked on a 2,278-mile train journey across the US.

During the trip they recorded self-penned songs for the new album at various train stations and even on the trains themselves.

Indeed the role of railways in his work is something significant to Bragg.

"There's really something important about the role of the train song," he said.

"If you go to the roots of American music, you've got blues and country.

"Obviously there are a lot of train songs in the blues, but the father of country music, a guy named Jimmie Rodgers, actually was a brakeman on a train."

He added: "There were a few places where we couldn't get into the railway station because it was just too far away from the platform.

"So we just had to record by the side of the train, so you can hear a guy saying 'all aboard' and listing all the places that train is going."

Bragg and Henry travelled the bulk of the distance between Chicago and Los Angeles during the trip.

Australia's Sticky Finger's bid to break into the UK music scene

THE sum of Sticky Finger's knowledge about Oxford is restricted to the university and Oxford English Dictionary.

But the band will at least get some semblance of the city's nightlife at Oxford's O2 Academy in Cowley Road on Wednesday, August 31.

The Australian rock, indie and reggae group will be performing their latest album 'Westway (The Glitter & The Slums)' before its official release next month.

Dylan Frost, Paddy Cornwall, Seamus Coyle, Beaker Best and Freddy Crabs formed Sticky Fingers in 2008 and arrive in Oxford in the second show on the UK leg of their world tour.

Guitarist and singer Dylan admitted the band's Oxford knowledge is limited.

"All I know about it is that you lot have a famous university, a dictionary named after you and that's about it really," he said.

"It'll be cool to see what Oxford is like and maybe I might educate myself."

After the success for their second album 'Land of Pleasure' Sticky Fingers

By James Richings

fans have high hopes for number three.

'Land of Pleasure' rocketed to number three in the Australian Album Chart two years ago after the more humble number 39 of album number one 'Caress Your Soul'.

With the extra recognition behind them, the Guardian asked: What's the best thing about performing to an audience that appreciates your music?

"They don't throw stuff at you," Dylan joked.

"Actually...that's not entirely true. It's strange because in Australia, the real meatheads love to throw cans at you and you can see them yelling out swear words as they're throwing them so they're obviously not having a bad time.

"I'd say tossing a can at a performer is a sign of praise and appreciation of your music, but I don't know whether that sort of rowdiness happens in Oxford.

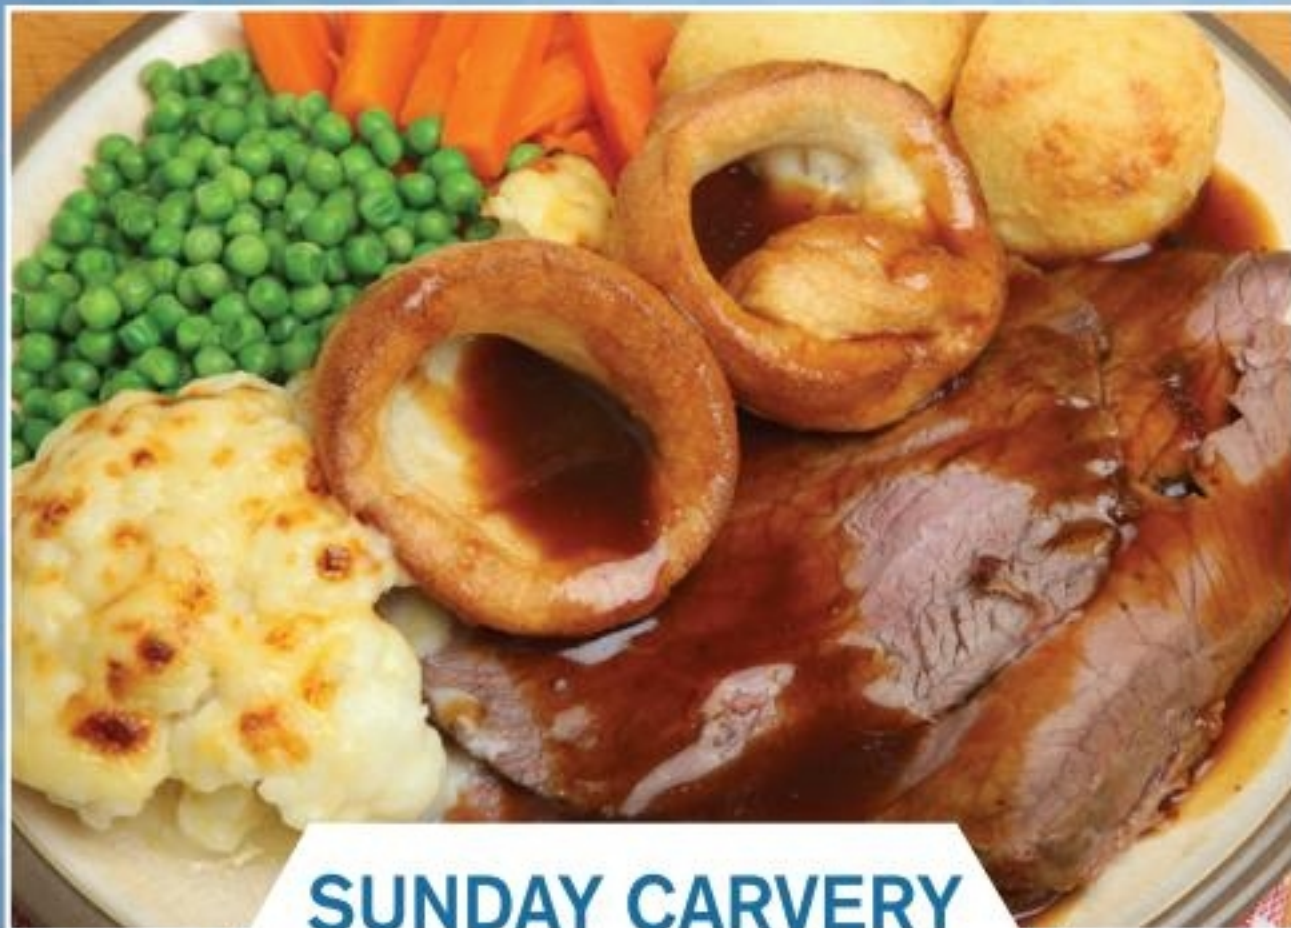

"I think you're too educated for that." Tickets for the 7pm gig cost £11.25.

TRUMBO
In 1947, Dalton Trumbo (Bryan Cranston of Breaking Bad fame) was Hollywood's top screenwriter until he and other artists were jailed and blacklisted for their political beliefs. This star-studded film recounts how Dalton used scripts and wit to win two Academy Awards and expose the absurdity and injustice of the blacklist, which entangled celebrities including gossip columnist Hedda Hopper (Helen Mirren), John Wayne and Kirk Douglas.

THE GLENN MILLER STORY

It's been seventy years since Glenn Miller vanished over the English Channel as he flew to Paris to entertain the troops during the Second World War. Did he crash? Was he shot down? Will the mystery ever be solved? Brought to the stage in a brand new musical spectacular, is the life, fame and vanishing of America's most famous big band leader. Music legend TOMMY STEELE, Britain's first rock n' roll icon who became our greatest ever song and dance man, commands the stage as only a very great star can in this extraordinary tale of the world's most famous big band leader, featuring a spectacular 16 piece orchestra plus a full supporting company of sensational performers and dazzling choreography. Tommy's legendary career boasts countless hit singles, Hollywood movies and award-winning stage musicals such as Half a Sixpence, Hans Andersen and Singin' in the Rain at the London Palladium, where he was recently honoured with a prestigious plaque celebrating the fact that he remains the theatre's most successful ever star.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

One of the greatest musicals of all time returns to the stage in a magnificent new production to enchant the young and the young at heart. This wonderfully lavish new staging tells the true story of the world-famous von Trapp singing family, from their romantic beginnings and search for happiness, to their thrilling escape to freedom at the start of WWII. Lucy O'Byrne, fresh from her success on BBC One's The Voice, plays the role of Maria. She became the competition's runner up in 2015, impressing the nation and chart topper will.i.am with her stunning vocal range. Award winning TV and stage leading-man Andrew Lancel plays the dashing Captain von Trapp. Lancel, who is best known to TV audiences for his portrayal of villainous businessman Frank Foster in Coronation Street and for the role of DI Neil Manson in The Bill, drew critical acclaim in the title role of the West End production Epstein - The Man Who Made the Beatles.

CALL TO ACTION PRESS RELEASE

Go the distance to fight heart disease at the BHF's Blenheim Palace Half Marathon

Sign up for the BHF's Blenheim Palace Half Marathon and fund life saving research into heart disease

The British Heart Foundation (BHF) is calling on people in Oxfordshire to join the fight for every heartbeat and take part in the Blenheim Palace Half Marathon and 10k on Sunday 2nd October to tackle heart disease.

Over 1000 people have already signed up for the challenge of the annual Blenheim Palace Half Marathon and 10k. The route starts in front of historic Blenheim Palace and winds through the Palace grounds. It's primarily flat and on paths so is ideal for runners of all ages and abilities. This year there will be a half marathon, 10k and family fun run taking place on the day.

In 2015, Marc Foster from Witney in Oxfordshire, was one of the top fundraisers at the Blenheim Palace Half Marathon event, raising an impressive £1330 for the BHF's life saving work.

Marc said "I decided to lace up my trainers and sign up for the BHF's Blenheim Palace Half Marathon in memory of my sister Jo. The event marked 10 years after my sister, Jo, passed away from Sudden Adult Death Syndrome at the age of 21, leaving behind her 9 month old daughter.

"I ran the event non-stop in just over 2 hours, the running and the amount I fundraised are one of my proudest moments. I would urge anyone thinking about taking part to sign up today and start fundraising. This is such an important charity and one close to my heart - we can help save lives and beat this disease together.

"This year my brother, Stu Foster, is organising the Witney Music Festival to raise even more money for the BHF. The festival starts on Friday 27th May until Sunday 12th June with bands playing in local pubs. The main event is on Saturday 11th June on the Leys in Witney."

Leanne Postlethwaite, Fundraising Event Manager for the BHF said: "We would like to thank Marc for raising over £1300 after taking part in the 2015 event, it is thanks to participants like Marc that we are able to continue to fund our life saving research. We can't wait for the 2016 event, it promises to be another great occasion and we're calling on the people of Oxfordshire to sign up to help us beat our fundraising target of £250,000 and join the fight against heart disease.

"BHF research has helped halve death rates from heart and circulatory disease over the past 50 years from transforming treatments for heart attack to pioneering the surgical techniques that ensure most babies now survive congenital heart disease. However heart and circulatory disease is still responsible for a quarter of all UK deaths and seven million people currently live with its burden."

Entry fees for the event are £28 for half marathon and £20 for 10k. There is also a family fun run £10 entry fee. All abilities are welcome, although training beforehand is strongly recommended.

Join the fight today and call the events team to register on 0845 130 8663 or visit bhf.org.uk/Blenheim. Alternatively, you can email the events team on events@bhf.org.uk

Making inroads into the UK market: Review of the Mitsubishi ASX ZC-H 1.6 Diesel 4WD

Little known drive, a lot of fun

The ASX is one of those cars you don't see a lot of, and that's not because it's rubbish but more because people tend to follow trends or what their neighbours own.

But over the last few years Mitsubishi have really started to increase their sales in the UK and it is my hope that buyers start to look more closely at what Mitsubishi have to offer and that in turn will drive sales for what I consider to be a very good car maker indeed.

Interior & Technology:

Mitsubishi really has gone above and beyond in contrasting the use of textures and materials inside the ASX, a lot of which gives you a pleasing visual impact once you sit inside.

And of course the detail around the dashboard and controls has been brilliantly done by the Mitsubishi engineers and designers.

The ASX's generous equipment levels are also good and even standard models receive electric windows, manual air conditioning, Bluetooth,

By Anthony Yates

seven airbags and stability and traction control.

If you step up to the ASX ZC-M then it gets even more exciting - adding in climate control air conditioning, cruise control, DAB radio, rain and rear parking sensors and xenon headlamps, whilst the ASX ZC-H adds satellite navigation, black leather seat trim and a panoramic glass roof.

You will also find a 419 litre boot with the helpful addition of a wide opening tailgate as well as a large 26 litre underfloor tray and a 60:40 split rear bench seat.

On the road:

My test car was fitted with 4WD which means it can do no wrong in my book. The ASX felt stable even when pushed hard into the corners and it felt very controlled and firm.

Remember this is an Active Sports X so it is meant to do all those things a normal car can't - and I am happy to report all is good.

Power and Efficiency:

Powered by a 1.6L 8 valve four-cylinder SOHC intercooled turbocharged diesel engine with 112bhp @ 3600rpm and a max torque figure of around 270Nm @ 1750rpm.

Fuel consumption is also very good returning a very impressive 60mpg (combined). There is a 2.2litre version with 147bhp but I was more than happy with the performance of the 1.6litre fitted to my test vehicle.

It will achieve 0-62 in around 11.5sec and top speed will max out at 111mph.

To sum up:

The ASX is a great car for a great price.

Yes it is a little unknown - and maybe that does make it the underdog - but I can assure you that this is no pet hate.

For that reason alone - I am going to give it five stars as an excellent indication of just how much fun this vehicle is to live with and to drive.

Do you know the difference between an mot and a service ?

Many customers assume that when an mot is carried out on there vehicle it will ensure that the vehicle is safe and ready to use on the road,well believe it or not this in some cases this is not correct,in fact a vehicle can pass the mot and not be fit for use on the public highway !!

The mot standards are very low and are purely there to assess the condition of the vehicle on the day,on many occasions it is not uncommon to pass a vehicle with tyres and brakes just over the test standards then a week or so later the vehicle owner needing to have the parts renewed.

When we carry out an mot test,we always explain to the customer the findings and the sensible vehicle owners tend to listen and have items replaced that are just on the pass limit.

We can not emphasie enough how important it is to have a service along side an mot to ensure your vehicle is safe and fit for use on the public highway,service standards are far more robust and will highlight issues that an mot is simply not designed to do plus with most modern vehicles electrics on a service correctly done the garage will use a laptop or similar to interrogate the complex electronics to pick up any hidden issues.

Many customers are on a budget and wrongly assume that by missing a service they save money,well that is a myth , think of it like this you use the car daily,you carry children,pets,shopping,friends and you go to work,holidays,days out etc in your car and you expect all of this in total reliability and safety in a car you have spent £1000s of your hard earned cash on .Yet you are doing this without anything more than a mot test once a year in the mistaken belief the mot will ensure your safety.

We see countless customers who arrive on the back of a breakdown wagon simply because simple service checks/ replacements have been missed and the customer have had there holiday,day out or trip to work ruined because they do not understand the mot scheme.

Williams are raring to go for the second half of the season

WILLIAMS will be looking to start the second half of the Formula One season with good results at two tracks that should be suited to their car.

Monza in Italy a week later.

Grove-based Williams have been struggling for form in the last few races, with the team having scored just six points in their last four outings.

But following the four-week summer break Williams will be hoping to make full use of the FW38's traditionally strong performance on higher-speed tracks.

Pat Symonds, Williams' chief technical officer, said: "Spa is a circuit which should favour us and our target will be to challenge from the start to get some good points.

"Spa places high demands on tyres – in typical cool temperatures we would expect to see front graining at the start of the weekend with more even front and rear wear by race day.

"We are back to medium, soft and super soft compounds which we have plenty of experience with this year, which combined with the 7km lap means we expect to see most cars on two-stop strategies."

Valtteri Bottas is hopeful Williams can get back up to speed in Spa, with the Finn having scored a podium finish at the track back in 2014.

He said: "This is definitely one of my favourite tracks, mainly because of the high speed corners.

"It's extremely enjoyable to drive, so it's always one of the best tracks to go to for me."

Felipe Massa is also in desperate need of a strong result, having only picked up two points in the last seven races – and none in the last four.

The Brazilian is looking increasingly likely to be replaced at Williams for next season, but has good form at Spa having won there for Ferrari in 2008.

He said: "It's always a pleasure to race there and feel the car perform at one of the best tracks in the world.

"I've got great memories from Belgium – I've been on the podium and I won there in 2008, it's definitely a place I always enjoy visiting and a great pleasure to race around."

Focussing on 'smaller details'

RENAULT are focussing on the "smaller details" rather than big upgrades as they seek to improve their performance in the second half of the Formula One season.

Enstone-based Renault have struggled in the first half of the year, following their late takeover of Lotus towards the end of 2015.

Kevin Magnussen scored the team's only points so far at the Russian Grand Prix at the start of May, but Renault are hopeful there is still more to come before the end of the year.

Team principal Fred Vasseur said: "If you look at the last two or three events, we are improving but we need to be focussed on the smaller details.

"We need to look at setup and strategy and make sure we're doing a better job compared to the last events, and we need to understand tyre management a bit better.

"Over the last two or three races we have looked at it a lot and we have a much better understanding now, so we need to keep on with this trajectory."

He continued: "We are going in the right direction but we need to find two or three tenths and it is in the smaller details we need to improve and find it."

Manor and Haas ready for action

BANBURY'S two Formula One teams Haas and Manor are back in action this weekend for the Belgian Grand Prix at the popular Spa Francorchamps circuit.

Manor come into the weekend with a new racer, as Renault test driver Esteban Ocon replaces Rio Haryanto for the remainder of the season.

Ocon, who along with Manor team-mate Pascal Wehrlein has the backing of Mercedes, has come in for Haryanto after the Indonesian's funding dried up.

The line-up stays the same at Haas, with Romain Grosjean looking to follow up his shock Belgian podium with Lotus last year with another good result, while Esteban Gutierrez targets his first points finish of 2016.

Grosjean said: "We had a good car in Belgium last year.

"I managed to overtake a few cars and get on the podium – it was one of those weekends where everything just went to plan."

Gutierrez added: "Spa is a track I always enjoy, and hopefully this year will be just as enjoyable and we'll do our best to make it a successful weekend."

Smith retires from Czech Grand Prix

OXFORD'S Bradley Smith was forced to retire from the Czech Grand Prix on Sunday after a technical issue forced him out of the race in Brno.

The Monster Yamaha Tech 3 racer leapt forward from the middle of the fourth row of the grid in Brno and quickly set about moving through the pack as he completed the opening lap in ninth.

He was pushed back one position a short time later, but remained focused and did his best to preserve his tyres for the second part of the race.

But at the midway point, the 25-year-old had to pit due to a technical issue with eight laps left to run.

He was not to return to the track.

Smith said: "Of course it's disappointing to have a DNF for a technical issue, especially as my race was running positively up until that point.

"The opening lap went quite well, and I was able to make up a few positions, plus I felt quite comfortable on the bike.

"I was looking after my tyres because I was certain that tyre management would be crucial at the end of the race.

"Yet unfortunately, I didn't have the chance to prove that as I had to pit in."

Teammate Pol Espargaro reached the flag and got three points.

It is the second time Smith has had to retire because of a technical issue in 2016.

He added: "Considering that it was one of the weekends where we [Smith and Espargaro] were closer to the front from the word go, it's a big shame."

Meanwhile Cal Crutchlow became the first British rider to win a premier-class grand prix since Barry Sheene in 1981, despite being as low as 15th in the early stages.

Seven-time champion Valentino Rossi took second with championship leader Marc Marquez in third.

And now Smith will be aiming to bounce back in front of his home fans at the British Grand Prix in a fortnight's time on September 4.

Ahead of the race, Smith has sampled new electronics, examined his bike's suspension options and also reconfirmed the setup configurations that he used last weekend.

Smith sits 15th in the standings on 42 points.

Teams poised for promotion after two wins

OXFORD Downs and Abingdon Vale look set for promotion from Division Two with two matches to go, after both won again last weekend.

Table toppers Oxford Downs beat lowly Oxford and Bletchington Nondescripts away by a wicket on Saturday.

The home side got off to a good start, getting 40-0 off the first few overs.

Despite Chris Day's 55 runs and Atif Ali's 32, Nick Rivett claimed 43-3 for the Downs as they claimed yet another victory by overcoming their total of 202 runs by a wicket, with Wasim Mehmood leading their reply with 31.

One more win will secure the title for them.

Challengers Abingdon Vale also claimed another victory by six wickets over Great and Little Tew 2nds on Saturday.

Tew got off to a bad start with their second batsman dismissed for a duck, before Jamie Coles and Markus Jeacock managed to get them off the ground with a partnership of 42.

However, good bowling from man of the match Joe Butcher kept the scoring low, with the visitors all out for 90.

Abingdon then opened their innings well with second batsman Ben Charlesworth reaching 46, to take them half way to the total.

Samuel Lion-Cachet was then bowled for just five runs before Joe Butcher's 37 helped them catch the visitors, to win by six wickets.

Pepperell misses cut despite encouraging month

• Eddie Pepperell

EDDIE Pepperell missed the cut in his first tournament in three weeks after ending four over par at the Czech Masters last Thursday and Friday.

Pepperell had a reasonably encouraging July on the European Tour, having won prize money at all three events he participated in.

He finished tied 54th at the Aberdeen Asset Management Scottish Open after finishing tied 45th at the 100th Open de France in Paris.

He topped this off with an impressive tied sixth finish at the end of July in the King's Cup at the Phoenix Gold Golf Club in Pattaya, Thailand.

But the Abingdon man missed the cut and finished tied 102nd after hitting rounds of 77 and 71 at the Albatross Golf Resort in Prague.

American Paul Peterson took the title with a score of -15 to mark his first victory of the season and on the European Tour.

The Arizona native secured the title just one stroke ahead of Belgian Thomas Pieters on -14.

Englishmen Ryan Evans, David Howell (both -11), Matthew Fitzpatrick (-10), Gary Boyd (-8), Graeme Storm (-8), Steven Brown and Mark Foster (both -7) all broke into the top 15.

Pepperell heads to Farso, Denmark for the Made in Denmark tournament where he will tee off with Swede Johan Carlsson and Welshman Bradley Dredge today, August 25.

Saints one match from final

OXFORD Saints continued their perfect season on Sunday with a crushing 40-3 victory over the Cornish Sharks, to win a place in the Division II semi-final.

They will now face Bristol Apache, having already defeated them twice.

Three touchdowns from Tony Glover and one each from James Walter and Ryan King-shott were enough to allow the Saints to edge closer to the title.

Early on in the match playmaker Destin Maulding made a 24-yard dash for the end zone down the sideline, and looked set to score a remarkable touchdown with a dive, but was on yard short.

Glover then finished off the attack with a run in.

The Sharks attempted to retaliate but were stopped for a five-yard loss and failed a 44-yard field goal attempt.

Glover then added two more points in the second quarter, after Maulding played a deep 35-yard pass to Ali Galbraith, for James Walter to make his way over from two yards out.

Glover claimed his second touchdown minutes later, smashing his way into the end zone from seven yards out, with Fielden adding the extras.

The goal kicker then added a field goal soon after to make the score 24-0 at half time.

Despite a setback of a

28-yard loss by Maulding, who was sacked by Sharks defenders, the Saints managed to recover through the running of Walter and Glover, who hammered the ball in for his third touchdown, after a 20-yard run from Walter.

A 30-yard field goal in the fourth quarter from Sharks' David Kriehn ensured they did not leave Tilsley Park empty handed.

Oxford then added a last touchdown before the end of the game with Kingshott crashing through from a yard after a 15-yard carry by James Walter.

The Saints now face Bristol Apache at home for the last step to the final at 2.30pm on Sunday.

Injury time penalty clinches Oxford's first league victory

U's snatch win at the death

A DRAMATIC injury time penalty from United hero Chris Maguire overturned the odds to see Oxford beat Peterborough 2-1 in a spirited encounter on Saturday.

Maguire's injury time spot kick sealed the U's victory after Wes Thomas had put them ahead 14 seconds into the second half, with Peterborough levelling the score just after the hour to set up a tense finish.

United faced a tough challenge on the back of successive losses, facing a Peterborough side unchanged from a 5-1 win over favourites Millwall.

New signing Phil Edwards came in at right-back to provide cover for Christian Ribeiro, as debutant Miles Welch Hayes dropped out of the side following Wednesday's loss.

Oxford looked sharp at the opening with the strong pairing of Kane Hemmings and Thomas pouncing on several opportunities as Peterborough looked shaky at the back.

In a physical opening to the game, Jack Baldwin was awarded the first yellow after half an hour for nearly upending Thomas, followed almost immediately by a booking for Liam Sercombe for an equally strong tackle.

By Dominic Thomas

Frustrations began to show, with the crowd and players beginning to turn on referee Seb Stockbridge as Joe Skarz received the U's second yellow for a tackle just outside the area.

Peterborough then had two strong penalty claims in quick succession, as Chey Dunkley brought down Gwionn Edwards bursting into the area given as a free kick, before Posh's Chris Forrester was booked for a dive minutes later.

Oxford then came out even more fired up for the second half as Chris Maguire fed Wes Thomas in the box, who turned and blasted a shot past Ben Alnwick inside 14 seconds.

Peterborough then had a golden chance to equalise minutes later when the ball fell to Jermaine Anderson, who found himself one-on-one with Simon Eastwood, but the keeper reacted fastest to swallow up the close-range shot.

But after sustained pressure by Peterborough, Paul Taylor got in behind the defence, and pulling ball back to Tom Nichols, allowed him the time and space to pick his spot, his shot going in off the bar.

With the scores level, neither side looked content on leaving with a point as they both went all out to snatch victory.

There was also another booking for Peterborough's Gwionn Edwards as he fouled Maguire outside the box, as Oxford went in search of the win.

Their hard work was nearly undone seconds before the end of normal time however when Josh Ruffels' backpass to Eastwood was nearly spilled into the net.

With the game into injury time, one last surge up field from the U's found Maguire free in the box, only to be brought down by Baldwin, who was awarded a second yellow for the ill-timed challenge.

Maguire then dusted himself down and as the spectators covered their eyes, nervelessly dispatched the penalty to seal a breath-taking victory at the death.

Manager Michael Appleton joked: "I didn't even see [the penalty], I was down the tunnel in the dressing rooms. I just waited for the cheer and then came back out."

"But I was confident with Mags because obviously I've signed him two or three times and I know what he's capable of from set plays."

Winning streak

EQUESTRIAN: Amateur equestrian Lisa Lane went on a winning streak at the prestigious National Championships at Stoneleigh Park in Warwickshire.

The 40-year-old from Bletchington took both the Equestrian In Hand Hunter Over 148cm and the Equestrian Supreme In hand Championship titles with her horse, Hazen Just a Whisper (Hazel).

The SEIB Trailblazers Championships is a week-long equestrian extravaganza that took place from July 29 to August 6.

Stalwart awarded

FOOTBALL: Oxford City's club secretary has been honoured by the Football Association (FA) for more than 40 years' service to the club.

John Shepperd, whose first associations with Oxford City go back over 60 years to the early 1950s, was presented with his award before Saturday's match against Concord Rangers prior to returning to the press box to produce the match report of City's 2-2 draw for Sunday's Non-League Paper.

Star backing

ROWING: The best is yet to come from Oxford's Olympic rower Stewart Innes, according to the two-time Olympic medallist Alex Partridge.

Partridge, who won silver in Beijing (2008) and Bronze in London (2012) in the men's eight, insists Innes, 25, "will go on to do great things".

Innes and men's pair partner Alan Sinclair were just pipped to a bronze medal by their Italian opposition in the final, despite sitting in a silver medal position with just 500m to go.

Like Partridge, both Innes and Sinclair are members of Leander Club in Henley, the most successful rowing club in the world with 123 Olympic medals to its name.

Bronze in Euros

HOCKEY: Oxford Hawks players Lucy Millington and Miriam Pritchard have won bronze as part of England Under 18s at the European Championships.

Millington, from Bartholomew School, Eynsham, was also the top scorer at the tournament in Cork, Ireland, while Pritchard also scored in their penalty shoot out in their third-place play-off versus Belgium to win bronze.

Gritty comeback

RUGBY LEAGUE: Oxford RL got their third win in four games with a 20-12 victory away to the South Wales Scorpions on Sunday.

Playing at a rain-soaked Virginia Park, the Blues ensured a 13th-place finish in the league ahead of their final game, despite trailing 12-4 with 20 minutes to go.

Resounding FA Cup defeat for Ardley

ARDLEY United's FA Cup aspirations were torn apart by a 3-0 defeat to Highworth Town on an afternoon of dark skies, swirling winds and driving rain on Saturday.

A Ryan Stanners 20-yard finish and a Kieron Gleed brace were enough for Highworth to knock Ardley out of the FA Cup at the final preliminary stage at the Playing Fields.

The home side were denied twice by the frame of the goal but could not beat the Town keeper and were punished by the visitors' ruthlessness in front of goal.

Five minutes in saw an Ardley attack break down and Highworth worked the ball very quickly up to the other end, and the first chance fell to Gleed but he fired into the goalkeepers arms.

The home side then had a glorious chance on 12 minutes when Elias Katsouloudi rounded the stranded Town keeper, but a defender somehow managed to thwart the forward.

On half an hour, a Jacob Daffern cross was deftly flicked on by Troy Bryan, but the ball bounced back off the post and away to safety.

Four minutes later the visitors took the lead when Stanners scored from 20 yards, after a break down the right saw the ball squared to him and he had time to compose himself before scoring.

With 15 minutes remaining Gleed doubled the Wiltshire sides' lead when the midfielder scored from a quick counter attack.

A Bradley Cox header struck the bar for Ardley – but the ball was then cleared and Gleed slotted home to round off the win.

Diddy fall at the first hurdle

DIDCOT'S dreams of replicating last year's FA Cup heroics ended at the first hurdle after a dramatic 4-3 defeat to Ascot United at Ascot Racecourse on Saturday afternoon.

The defeat in the final round of the FA Cup preliminary stage means there will be no repeat of last year, when Diddy made it all the way to the FA Cup first round proper where they lost 3-0 to League Two side Exeter City.

The Yellamen cruised into a 3-0 lead before Didcot fought back and almost drew level, but the home side finally derailed the Railwaymen late-on.

Two goals from Charlie Samuels and another from Louie Gilpin had put Ascot in control with 30 minutes remaining.

Samuels was denied a hat-trick when Diddy keeper Leigh Bedwell saved a 67th minute penalty, making up for the clumsy challenge that brought the penalty.

Didcot goals from Jack Powell on 78 minutes and a Ben Whitehead penalty six minutes before time gave Ascot a late scare.

But Yellaman substitute Samir Regragui regained the hosts' two goal lead after he lobbed the ball straight into the Diddy net from 25 yards following a weak clearance from Didcot's keeper.

Incredibly, 4-2 became 4-3 when Andy Ballard scrambled an injury time lifeline, but there was no time to find an equaliser.

City leave it late to draw with Concord

OXFORD City scored two late goals to salvage a point against previously pointless Concord Rangers at the Marsh Lane Stadium on Saturday.

It could have been deemed an early season relegation six-pointer in the National League South, with Concord yet to get off the mark after four consecutive defeats, while City were also in need of points after three successive losses.

The home side began with a couple of changes to the team and were rocked just after the half-hour mark by two quick goals from the visitors.

Concord midfielders Marvin Ekpiteta and João Carlos scored their first goals of the season to give the Beach Boys a comfortable first half lead.

The match continued in the second half in a finely balanced fashion until a late rally from Justin Merritt's men saved them from an embarrassing home defeat.

Reece Fleet curled in a shot for City's first open-play goal of the season on 87 minutes, and, two minutes into added-time, Louie Soares levelled with a penalty – City's third spot-success of the campaign so far.

Valiant U's positive over EFL Cup defeat

THREE goals in the last 14 minutes ended Oxford United's EFL Cup campaign in a 4-2 defeat to Championship side Brighton & Hove Albion at the Kassam stadium on Tuesday night.

Goals from Sam Adekugbe, Kazenga Lua-Lua, Elvis Manu and Tomer Hemed secured the Seagulls' passage into the third round of the cup.

But do not be fooled by the score line – a positive second half from the U's was only tamed by Brighton's Championship quality in the final quarter of an hour.

Wes Thomas equalised on the half hour mark and Dan Crowley scored his first goal for the club deep into injury time.

Brighton, who made 11 changes from their weekend draw at Reading, took the lead within two minutes; left back Sam Adekugbe ran on to a through ball and outpaced Sam Long to blast the ball beyond Simon Eastwood.

Lua-Lua, who caused havoc down Oxford's right throughout the match, should have doubled the visitors' advantage within four minutes before providing Danny Hulla with a golden opportunity but the midfielder failed to hit the target.

On 16 minutes, Brighton continued to threaten when Manu broke the U's defensive line but Eastwood was quick off his line to thwart the Brighton forward – not for the last time in the match.

Oxford struggled to deal with Brighton's high tempo, precision passing and movement off the ball in the first half – Lua-Lua drifted inside to fire a low 25-yard drive narrowly wide of Eastwood's goal as pressure on the U's defence increased.

By George Welch

And Oxford were just hanging on when Manu narrowly despatched a volley over the bar from an inch perfect through ball from Oliver Norwood.

But Oxford forced their way back into the match on 29 minutes when Thomas thumped a rebounded effort home for his third goal of the season.

It was a more even second half as United grew into the game.

Thomas and Roberts came close for the U's on the hour, while Manu broke the hosts' backline once again and forced Eastwood into action.

The decisive moment of the match came on 76 minutes when Lua-Lua struck a spectacular finessed shot into the bottom right hand corner.

Yet United could have equalised moments later when Josh Ruffels had the freedom of the area, but his first time effort was denied by the feet of Niki Maenpaa before John Lundstram rattled the crossbar.

And it proved costly when, a minute later, the East Sussex side confirmed their passage through to round three when Manu – eventually – prodded beyond Eastwood.

Substitute Hemed put the icing on the cake, smashing home a Sam Baldock cross.

A 94th minute goal from Crowley proved too little far too late.
